BILL TO PROTECT COUNTY.

Representative Gramley Introduces Measure that Will Relieve Centre County of Unjust Expense.

The acquittal of William Hogan who escaped from the pen, by a Centre county jury, largely or perhaps wholly on account of the fact that Centre county would be obliged to not only pay the court expenses, but the cost of maintenance as well, led Representative C. L. Gramley to introduce a measure in the house that will no doubt become a law. The measure, which is reprinted below provides that Centre county, where the pen is located, as well as counties in which Reformatories are located, shall be protected against court cost and maintenance charges in cases where prisoners are brought before the county court. The proposed law is as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc, That hereafter any and all prisoners or convicts escaping or attempting to escape from the several penitentiaries and reformatories of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or from the lands, jurisdiction and control of the officers of said penal institutions, shall be tried in the counties where said escapes shall have been committed.

Section 2. The costs of the trial for escape or breaking away of convicts and prisoners from the several penitentiaries and reformatories of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or the violation by said convicts and prisoners of any or all of the penal statutes relating to escape, shall in each instance be borne and paid by the respective counties of the Commonwealth from whose courts the said convicts shall have been committed to the said penitentiaries or reformatories.

Section 3. In case of conviction and sentence of said escaping convicts and prisoners, the costs of maintenance of said convicts and prisoners under such new sentence shall be borne by the county from which said convict or prisoner shall have been originally committed.

The "Wisconsin Idea."

The Appropriations Committee of the House has set aside $1,470,000 for the Pennsylvania State College, $1,000,000 for the University of Pittsburgh, $555,000 for Temple University, and $1,500,000 for the University of Pennsylvania. In addition the State makes a liberal provision for the School of Industrial Art and similar institutions.

If the much vaunted "Wisconsin idea" were adopted in Pennsylvania practically the whole of these enormous sums would be devoted to a single college, preferably the State College, and the facilities of that school would be enlarged so as to give instruction to from 5000 to 10,000 students in a very large variety of subjects. This would be an admirable thing for State College, which no doubt would prove itself worthy of this splendid benefaction.

Hasting Under $5000 Bail.

William H. Hasting, brother of former Governor Daniel H. Hastings, is under $5000 bail for his appearance at court, in Dauphin county, on a charge of felonious assault with intent to kill four policemen in Harrisburg about two weeks ago, an account of which appeared in these columns. Hastings had gone to the home of Ross Hickok to discuss some money matters, and while there he drew a revolver and fired several shots at him, one bullet entering the thigh. Policemen interfered, and a set battle took place. Hastings acted as his own attorney.

THE P. O. SURPLUS.

Investigation by New Postoffice Department Reveals Juggling of Figures to Make a Show.

Flatly denying claims of former postmaster general Hitchcock that the postal system was self sustaining during the Republican administration, Postmaster General Burleson on Saturday made public the report of a Postal Survey board, severely indicting the Republican regime.

Juggling of figures to show a surplus that did not exist; "unjustifiable methods of bookkeeping;" a "ruthlessly enforced policy of Taft economy," crippling of the public service and a conspiracy to embarrass the present Democratic administration were the sweeping charges made against the Republican officeholders.

The report was the result of an investigation made upon orders of Mr. Burleson by the fourth assistant postmaster general and the chief clerk.

Instead of a surplus of $200,000 claimed by Hitchcock in 1911 the report asserts that an actual deficit of over $750,000 occurred.

Story of the Wolf.

From the Altoona Tribune.

It is only two or three years ago that farmer P. F. Conser, of Millheim, Centre county, and his son Harry, while plowing in one of their upland fields saw a large black wolf trotting across the furrows towards the Seven Mountains in the direction of High valley. Since that time wolves have been occasionally tracked in the Seven Mountains and vicinity, so that they cannot be classed as extinct in this state. Twenty years ago they were numerous in the Seven Mountains. In the Susquehanna valley they hung on until the middle sixties.

"Black Headed Bill" Williams, the famous Bucktail scout, says that the last time he heard a wolf call on the Round Top, not far from Lock Haven, was one night in the early fall of 1863, when he was home from the war on a furlough. Civilization gradually forced them south until they made their final stand among the Seven Mountains. The last pack of wolves was wiped out in White Deer valley not more than half a dozen miles from the town of Muncy about 1879.

John Blair Linn in his "Annals of Buffalo Valley" tells of a pack of fifty wolves found buried in a snow drift on Shade mountain during the cold winter of 1835. "Old Dan" Treaster, the patriarchal hunter of Treaster valley, used to tell of some remarkable experiences with wolves. Some nights he said they were so rampageous around his shanty that the good old man was unable to go out and feed his stock in the nearby barn. One wintry night he went out early to elude his unwelcome visitors, but the wolves scented him and surrounded the barn, making it necessary for him to spend the night among the horses and cattle.

The wolf is a wily animal and if he can pick up a living, will defy hunters and trappers. The old hunters of Pennsylvania say that wolves became scarce because the game animals and birds on which they preyed were reduced to scant numbers by sportsmen. Very few wolves were caught in traps, consequently records of bounties paid on them are not numerous in the county commissioners' offices. Perhaps the most picturesque wolf in Pennsylvania mountain history is the one that used to follow the night packet-boats on the old canal from Williamsport to Lock Haven. He could make out the bright lights of the boat from his path along the top of the Bald Eagle mountain and barked wildly as he trailed it to its destination.

When you hear youngsters talk about hiking tell them that Mrs. Hannah Smith, who was eighty years old in March, walked from Bellefonte to her home west of Centre Hall, last Saturday. Her son, James Mowery, died in Bellefonte, and as is recorded elsewhere in this issue was buried from the home of her son above town, and it was to attend his funeral two days later that she made the trip. It was a mother's love and not notoriety that induced the woman to perform the feat cited.

MASONS WILL DEDICATE

Grand Lodge Hall at Elizabeth Today (Thursday)—Finest Building in State.

Elizabeth will be the mecca for 10,000 or more Masons from Pennsylvania and other states, who will go there today (Thursday) to attend the dedication of the Grand Lodge Hall.

This hall, first to be erected of the series of buildings that, with the land will eventually represent an investment of $5,000,000, will be used as the administrative headquarters of the homes, the general dining room, library and places for social features, as well as for the accommodation of 175 members, and the necessary employes.

In charge of the ceremonies will be the following officers: William L. Gorgas, right worshipful grand master; J. Henry Williams, right worshipful deputy grand master; Louis A. Watres, right worshipful senior grand warden; James B. Krause, right worshipful junior grand warden; William B. Hackenburg, right worshipful grand treasurer, and John A. Perry, right worshipful grand secretary.

On June 1, 1911, ground was first broken for the Grand Lodge Hall. The building is now completed, and will be fully furnished in time for dedication. The cost has been $425,000. Elizabethan in design, fireproof and constructed of the best materials, the building is the finest of its kind in Pennsylvania. It is 425 feet long and 56 feet wide, the dining room extension being 148x42 feet, with a ceiling 58 feet in height. There are 480 lights in the dining room, which will accommodate 800 guests. The kitchen extension is 101x62 feet. The building is 2½ stories in height. A large library, that will eventually house many thousands of volumes, is at the west end of the hall.

The building is finished in hard wood, oak and chestnut. It contains 310 rooms. In the basement is a bowling alley, 20x25 feet. Connecting on the west is a large reading and smoking room, and to the east a barber shop, a four-ton ice plant, ice cream freezers, five large refrigerators, storage and butcher room.

Upon the first floor is an outdoor sun parlor intersecting a sun porch, 20x35 feet. A large library room is on the northwest end, finely furnished. A ladies' reading room is attached, measuring 20x25 feet. All the columns are carved in ornamental designs.

In the building also, is a committee room, 25x56 feet; a reception room, 25x25 feet, and a 62-foot music gallery in the dining room. The kitchens are at the east end of the hall. They are equipped with potato peelers, dishwashers, steam tables, freight elevators. Upon the second floor are 31 sleeping rooms, each 14x18 feet. There are also lavatories and committee rooms. Upon the third floor are 61 sleeping rooms, 16 bathrooms and 32 washstands.

At least $20,000 is being spent upon the furnishings of the building. The hall contains 100,000 feet of electric wiring, 1500 lights, thirteen 32-horsepower motors and indirect steam heat supplied from a power house.

At the present time there has been completed the power plant, to the east of the building, 3000 feet distant, and to the west the sewage disposal plant is nearly finished.

Union County Deaths.

In Mifflinburg, Oliver Perry Catherman, aged sixty-five years. Mrs. Henry Hopp, also in Mifflinburg, aged eighty-one years. At Mazeppa, Susan, widow of Daniel Rangler, aged eighty-two years.

Towns that furnish free sites and water, exemption from taxes and the capital, while strangers supply the experience, to establish new industries, awaken to find everything missing, including the strangers. However, they have the experience as an asset. Lancaster county has many such monuments of folly, including some seven or eight canning factories, built at a cost of from $8000 to $10,000 each, to can vegetables, but up to this time they have specialized in picking stockholders. A little gathering in this office and a side trip to Elverson, Chester county, saved a robbery of this character in Centre Hall.

Roosevelt got six cents damage from the Michigan editor who said the former president got drunk, lied and cursed. The rough rider proved that he took not more than two glasses of champagne, a mouth full of beer, a tablespoon full of whiskey, and brandy at one time. Both parties paid their own costs.

The supreme court reversed the decision in the case of Miss Lillie Dale against the executors of the late George Dale, her father. Miss Dale will be allowed the book account presented by her against the estate.

Centre Hall Defeats Millheim.

By the score of 7 to 6, the local baseball team defeated Millheim on Grange Park on Memorial Day. What appeared to be an easy victory for Centre Hall in the first half of the game, culminated in an exciting finish in which the visitors made a gallant effort to land the game.

W. Bradford was on the mound for the home team and proved his versatility as a ball player by pitching in as splendid fashion as he handles himself in any other position on the diamond. Only four hits were garnered off his delivery, and eight of the enemy made a vain attempt to land on the ball. Only in one inning, the ninth, was he in any real danger, and this was simply due to the fact that his daring base running throughout the game had sapped his strength to such an extent that Millheim was able to make three of their four hits in this inning and score three runs. The inning ended when R. O. Musser lifted a fly to centre which Emerick landed.

While the game was not one of many errors on either side, it was not featured by much sensational playing. Kerlin made several good catches in left; Garis caught his first game behind the bat and he handled Bradford's delivery faultlessly. For the visitors, Kessler made the picture play of the day when we turned his back on a short fly to left centre and caught the ball while running in this manner. R. Musser pitched well in spots, but was almost invariably found when a hit did the most damage.

It was a good, clever game, and the friendly spirit existing between these two teams was manifested at all times.

Victor Jones was the arbiter of the game and his decisions were impartial on every occasion.

The following score shows who's who and what they did.

Electric Plant on Honey Creek.

McClenethan Brothers, of Reedsville, have broken ground near Naginey Station on Honey Creek, for an electric power plant with a capacity of 1000 horse power with facilities for enlarging as the market for electricity increases. The power will be used by the Cambria Iron and Steel Company at their stone quarries, and trolley lines are to be extended from Reedsville to Milroy and nearby points.

During the first five days of June we have had nice warm weather.

NEW DEATH HOUSE.

Bill Providing for Electrocution Up to Governor.

The senate passed finally the house bill providing that all condemned murderers shall be put to death by electrocution. It provides that all electrocutions shall take place in a building to be erected at the new western penitentiary being constructed in Centre county. The execution shall take place within a week to be named by the governor in each case.

After a man is condemned in any county, the governor will issue a death warrant naming the week in which the electrocution shall take place. When the warden of the penitentiary gets the warrant he will notify the prison authorities of the county in which the prisoner is confined to take the condemned man to the penitentiary, where he shall be placed in solitary confinement until the day of execution.

Those who will be permitted to witness the execution besides the warden and his assistant are one physician, one spiritual adviser, six citizens and not more than six representatives of daily newspapers.

The bill becomes effective as soon as approved, but will not effect a condemned man who committed murder prior to the date of the approval of the act.

Local I. O. O. F. Confers Degree.

On invitation from Boalsburg lodge, I. O. O. F., to confer the second degree, forty members of the local order, including the degree team, attended the special meeting Thursday night. The hall was crowded to its capacity, there being about one hundred Odd Fellows in attendance. Beside the delegation from Centre Hall, representatives of State College, Pine Grove Mills, and Millheim lodges were present.

The candidate to be instructed in the mysteries of the second degree was Harry W. Lonberger, and the visiting lodge performed the work in a very creditable manner.

Visiting brothers made short addresses for the good of the order, and then a splendid lunch was served by the Boalsburg lodge. Sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee made up the menu, and the committee in charge of this part of the program went to no little trouble in preparing such a sumptuous repast to which due justice was done by the large body of brothers.

Boalsburg lodge is in a flourishing condition. Its hall is fitted with the finest kind of furniture, and a player piano evidences the fact that when it comes to music, Boalsburg has the finest obtainable.

During the time Mr. Fleming has been with this auditing company, he has done work in many of the larger cities, which makes his position more desirable than to be continuously in one New York office.

When their little son was bitten by a rattle snake, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nale resorted to the old and familiar remedy of applying fresh blood to the wound to draw the poison from the victim. The parents and their little son, Ernest, aged ten years, who live near the first tunnel below Coburn, were walking through the mountains, when the snake sank its fangs into the boy's left ankle. Mr. Thomas tied a band about the limb to check circulation of the poison, and on reaching home a chicken was killed and a portion of it laid over the wound. Dr. G. S. Frank was called and gave professional aid, and every hope is entertained for the youth's full recovery.

STEAMER RUNS ON ROCK IN FOG

American Liner Haverford in Bad Condition.

ALL THE PASSENGERS SAFE.

In Response to Calls For Aid Powerful Tugs Hurry to Disabled Ship Off the Irish Coast and Rescue Passengers.

Queenstown. — The American Line steamer Haverford, which sailed Wednesday from Liverpool for Philadelphia with 134 cabin and 850 steerage passengers aboard, went on the rocks westward of Corkhead Thursday afternoon while feeling her way cautiously in a dense fog.

The wireless again demonstrated its efficiency. By its aid what might have been a disaster was converted into a mere accident. Within a few minutes the ship was in communication with Queenstown. Her position and needs were explained. First aid in the form of great tugs, which ply between the port, and passing liners with passengers and mails, were going to the rescue as fire engines respond to an alarm.

Before dusk all the passengers with light luggage had been safely brought ashore at this harbor. When the last passenger was taken off there were 15 feet of water in the forehold of the vessel.

The admiralty station received the first message of distress. This is transmitted immediately to the American Line office, and at the same time dispatched the big government tugs Hellespont and Stormcock to the liner's assistance.

The company's Queenstown agents soon afterward sent three of the Clyde Shipping Company's tugs, which, with the tender and tugs, carrying 80 Irish passengers, who expected to board the Haverford, already on the way, soon arrived at the scene of the accident. Thus the stranded vessel in a short time was surrounded by a small fleet.

Quarters were found here for the ship-wrecked people, the cabin passengers being housed at the large hotels and the steerage passengers in the smaller hostelries.

The heavy baggage of the passengers is likely to be lost if the ship breaks up. When the passengers were ordered to debark one of the women refused to leave until her bulldog was brought up from below.

GOTHAM HONORS MAINE'S DEAD

Monument to Those Killed in Havana Harbor Unveiled.

BATTLESHIPS BOOM SALUTE

Former President Taft, Secretary Of Navy Daniels, Governor Sulzer, Rear Admiral Sigsbee and Others Delivered Addresses.

New York.—Two nations—the freed and the liberator—paid honor to the heroes who died on board the battleship Maine when that ship was blown up in Havana Harbor at 9.40 o'clock on the evening of February 15, 1898.

The occasion was a memorial service, and ceremonies attendant upon the unveiling of the National Maine Monument at the Fifty-ninth street and Broadway entrance to Central Park.

One thousand Cuban sailors from the warship Cuba, 10,000 United States sailors from the ships of the North Atlantic fleet which came especially for the occasion, the Sixty-ninth Regiment, First Regimental Cavalry and the Naval Militia of the New York State Militia and several Spanish War Veteran Associations took part in one of the greatest naval and military parades New York has seen in years. Starting from Fortieth street and Fifth avenue the troops proceeded to Fifty-ninth street, thence down Fifty-ninth to Broadway, up Broadway to Sixty-sixth street and thence east into Central Park. Here the troops and sailors countermarched so that the heads of the various divisions simultaneously appeared surrounding the monument.

In the reviewing stand were Governor Sulzer of New York, Governor Haines of Maine, Mayor Gaynor and other city officials; Rear-Admiral Charles Sigsbee, who was captain of the ill-fated Maine at the time of the explosion, and Father John Chidwick, chaplain of the old Maine.

Previous to the arrival of the troops at the monument they were reviewed from a specially erected stand at the Plaza, Fifty-ninth street and Fifth avenue.

With the troops banked about the monument and standing at parade rest, addresses were made by the prominent guests. Directly back of the monument were the two groves of trees planted by Park Commissioner Stover as a part of the Maine memorial. To the left in the rear of the monument had been planted one scarlet oak for each ship which was under the command of Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila Bay.

Just opposite these trees was a grove of red oaks, one for each of the ships under the command of Admirals Schley and Sampson at Santiago Harbor. As a background for the monument and the two "oak tree fleets," a grove of pin oaks had been planted to represent each battleship in the present United States Navy.

PLIGHT OF THREE CHILDREN.

Wilson Remits Fine Of Father On Their Account.

Washington.—The plight of three little motherless girls working in a Southern cotton mill and needing the help of their father, Marion Cook, serving a two-year penitentiary term for illicit distilling in North Carolina, caused President Wilson to remit the $100 fine which was a part of Cook's sentence and which he was unable to pay. Cook was convicted at Asheville, N. C., and as a result of the President's action will be released June 16.

RECORD FOR LAW AND ORDER.

No Grand Jury Needed in Isle of Wight County.

Norfolk, Va.—Isle of Wight County, Va., having a population of 15,000, claims the record for law and order. No grand jury has been necessary for the consideration of criminal business thus far during the year 1913, and Judge B. D. White, of the Circuit Court, said the county jail was empty and practically for rent. Civil business alone keeps the court alive.

WOULD VIOLATE OUR TREATIES

Senate May Yield to Protests of Foreign Nations.

WILL ELIMINATE THE CLAUSE

Objectionable Provision In Tariff Bill Grants Five Per Cent. Discount On Imports In American Controlled Vessels.

Washington.—Congress, in all probability, will yield to the protests of foreign nations against the provision in the Underwood Tariff Bill granting a five per cent. tariff discount on imports in American-owned or controlled vessels.

That the provision can be eliminated from the bill without harm and that Congress has no desire to insist upon legislation that will be embarrassing to foreign nations, or interfere with treaty obligations, was admitted by administration leaders who are in charge of the bill. President Wilson is said to have intimated that he would not object to having the clause eliminated.

This action, it was reported, would be recommended by the Senate Finance Sub-Committee, headed by Senator John Sharp Williams, which is considering the administrative features of the bill. The sub-committee also will seek to modify another clause which compels foreign merchants to submit their books to an American agent in cases of disputed valuations and provides as a penalty for refusal that the goods be excluded from entry. Germany, France and England have made strong protests against this clause and assurances were given that an effort will be made to eliminate the objectionable features.

Two important conferences were held on the foreign protests. One was between Senator Simmons, chairman of the Finance Committee, and Secretary Bryan and John Bassett Moore, counsellor of the State Department. The other conferees were Senators Williams and Shively, of the Finance Committee, and Representative Peters, of Massachusetts, who had charge of the administrative section of the tariff bill for the House Ways and Means Committee.

It was reported that the State Department held it to be unquestionable that the five per cent. debenture clause violated foreign treaties. During the conference protests against the clause from eight nations were read.

The peace pact was signed in the presence of Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Secretary, and several Ambassadors of the Great Powers.

By the terms of the peace treaty, which was drawn up by the Ambassadors of the Great Powers, Turkey will give up all European territory west of a line running from Enos, on the Ægean Sea to Midia, on the Black Sea. The Turks also give Crete.

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Keziah Coffin, supposed widow, is arranging to move from Trumet to Boston, following the death of her brother, for whom she had kept house. Kyan Pepper, widower, offers marriage, and is indignantly refused. Capt. Elkanah Daniels, leader of the Regular church, offers Keziah a place as housekeeper for the new minister, and she decides to remain in Trumet. Keziah takes charge of Rev. John Ellery, the new minister, and gives him advice as to his conduct toward members of the parish. Ellery causes a sensation by attending a "Come-outer" meeting. Ellery's presence is bitterly resented by Eben Hammond, leader of the meeting. Grace apologizes for her guardian and Ellery escorts her home in the rain. Capt. Nat Hammond, Eben's son, becomes a hero by bringing the packet into port safely through fog and storm. Ellery finds Keziah writing a letter to some one, inclosing money in response to a demand. She is curiously startled when informed of the arrival of Nat. Nat calls on Keziah, and it develops that they have been lovers since youth. Daniels remonstrates with Ellery for attending "Come-outer" meeting. Ellery is caught by the tide and is rescued by Nat. They become friends. Ellery meets Grace while walking in the fields, and learns that she walks there every Sunday. The clergyman takes dinner Sundays with the Daniels. Annabel, the captain's daughter, exerts herself to make an impression on him. She notices with vexation his desire to get away every Sunday at a certain time. She watches him through a spy glass. Nat again importunes Keziah to marry him. He says he has had a quarrel with his father, who wants him to marry Grace. Ellery asks Grace to marry him. She confesses that she loves him, but says she fears to displease her guardian. Elkanah Daniels tells Eben about the meetings between Ellery and Grace. Eben declares he will make Grace choose between him and the preacher. Grace finds him in a rage, following the excitement of Elkanah's visit. Just before he dies Eben exacts a promise from Nat and Grace that they will marry. Keziah breaks the news to Ellery and later he received a note from Grace saying she is to marry Nat, and asking him not to try to see her again. Keziah tells the story of her own marriage with a man who turned out to be a good-for-nothing, and who was reported to have been lost at sea, and of her love for Nat, whom she cannot marry because the husband is alive. Captain Nat sails for Manila to be gone two years. He says he and Grace have decided not to marry until he returns. Nat is overdue, and it is feared that he has been lost at sea. Keziah gets a letter from her husband saying he is coming back. Grace goes on a visit to relatives of the Hamptons. A vessel flying distress signals is discovered off the coast. Ellery goes with party to board the vessel. A man is found suffering from smallpox, the rest of the crew having deserted. He is taken to an abandoned shack on shore and Ellery helps nurse him. Before he dies it is discovered that he is Keziah's husband. Ellery, left alone in quarantine, is found wandering in a delirious condition by Grace. She takes him back to the shanty and sends for help. Keziah and Grace nurse Ellery who is suffering from brain fever. The doctor and Keziah spread a report that Grace and Ellery are engaged. News comes that Nat has arrived safely in Boston. The story of the wreck of Nat's vessel comes out and a home-coming is arranged. Nat fails to appear. Keziah intercepts Nat on his homeward journey and tells him of Grace's love for Ellery. He releases Grace from her promise to him. Keziah gets a delayed letter from her husband saying he will return soon, and not having yet heard of the identity of the smallpox victim, she leaves Trumet. Ellery tells Nat that the dead man was Keziah's husband. Nat goes to Boston, finds Keziah and brings her home.

She hesitated. In a measure she was relieved, for she had feared the man at the door might be her husband. But she was greatly agitated and troubled. Everyone in the place was looking at her.

"Nat," she said, trying to speak firmly, "I can't see you now. I'm very busy. Please go away."

"Come!"

"I can't come. Go away. Please."

"Keziah, I'm waitin'. And I'm goin' to wait if I stay here all night. Come!"

She obeyed then. She could not have a scene there, before all these strangers. She stepped past him into the little room. He followed and closed the door.

"Nat," she said, turning to him, "why did you come? How could you be so cruel? I——"

He interrupted her, but not with words. The next moment his arms were about her and she was pressed tight against the breast of his blue jacket.

"Keziah," he whispered, "I've come to take you home. Home for good. No, stay where you are and I'll tell you all about it. Praise be to God! we're off the rocks at last. All that's left is to tow you into port, and, by the everlastin', that's what I'm here for!"

When Upham came up the stairs after his long interview with "the boss," he found the door at the top closed. When he rattled the latch that door was opened by a stranger.

"Are you Mr. Hallett?" asked Captain Nat briskly.

"No, I'm not. Mr. Hallett is in his office on the first floor. But what——"

"On the main deck, hey? Well, all right; we won't trouble him. You'll do just as well; I judge you're one of the mates of this craft. You tell Mr. Hallett that this lady here has decided not to cruise with him any longer. No fault to find, you understand, but she's got a better berth. She's goin' to ship along with me. Ain't that so, Keziah?"

Keziah, pale, trembling, scarcely realizing the situation even yet, did not speak. But Captain Nat Hammond seemed to find his answer in her silence. A few minutes later, her arm in his, they descended the gloomy stairs, and emerged into the sunshine together.

That afternoon Mr. Abner Stone said he "washed his hands" of his poor relation—this time, as he indignantly declared, "for good and all."

CHAPTER XXI.

In Which Keziah's Parson Preaches Once More.

Time has wrought many changes in Trumet. The packet long since ceased to ply between the village and Boston, the stage has been superseded by the locomotive, the old "square-riggers," commanded by Cape Cod men, no longer sail the seas. Along the main road the houses have changed hands. Didama Rogers peers no more from her parlor window; that parlor is now profaned by the frivolous and irreverent summer boarder. But the old residents love to talk of the days that are gone and if you happen to catch Mr. Isaac Higgins, now postmaster and a dignified member of the board of selectmen, in a reminiscent mood he will very likely tell you of the meeting of the parish committee called by its chairman, Elkanah Daniels, to oust Rev. John Ellery from the pulpit of the Regular church.

"I'll never forget," says Mr. Higgins, "that parish committee meetin' if I live a thousand years. I, and two or three other young shavers, was hid in the little room off the vestry—the room where they kept the dishes they used for church suppers—and we heard the whole business. Of course nobody knew that Nat was goin' to marry Keziah then, but they did know that he wa'n't goin' to marry Grace Van Horne, and had given her up to the minister of his own accord. So Daniels's guns were spiked and he didn't have no chance at all. However, you'd never have guessed it to look at him. He marched into that meetin' and up to the platform as stiff and dignified as if he'd swallered a peck of starch. He called the meetin' to order—'twas a full one, for all hands and the cook was there—and then got up to speak.

"He opened fire right off. He raked John Ellery fore and aft. The parson, he said, had disgraced the society and his sacred profession and should be hove overboard immediate.

"Three or four sung out 'Question' and 'Vote.' But Elkanah held up his hand.

"'Gentlemen,' says he, 'before I ask for the vote I want to say just one word. I've worshiped in this meetin' house ever sence I was a child. I was christened in it; my father worshiped here afore me; I've presided over the meetin's of this body for years. But I tell you now that if you vote to keep that rascally hypocrite in your pulpit I shall resign from the committee and from the society. It'll be like cuttin' off my right hand, but I shall do it. Are you ready for the vote? Those in favor of retaining the present minister of this parish will rise. Those opposed will remain seated."

"Every man on the floor stood up. Daniels himself was the only one that stayed settin' down.

"'It is a vote,' says he, white as a sheet, and his voice trembling. 'Gentlemen, I bid you good day.'

"He took up his hat and cane, give one look around the vestry, as if he were sayin' good-by to it, and marched down the aisle as straight and starchy as he'd come into it. Only, when he reached the door, he put up one hand as if he was steadyin' himself. There was precious few in that vestry that liked Elkanah Daniels, but I'm bettin' high there wa'n't a one who didn't feel sorry for him then."

"Keziah," He Whispered, "I've Come to Take You Home."

Captain Daniels and his daughter moved to Boston that summer. They never came back to Trumet to live. Annabel remained single until after her father's death; then she married a man very much younger and poorer than she was. It was remarked by acquaintances of the couple that the difference in age became less and less apparent as their married life continued.

On a Sunday morning, a few weeks after the committee meeting, the Regular church was crowded. John Ellery was to preach his first sermon since the San Jose came ashore. Every member of the congregation was present. Even Mrs. Prince, feeble but garrulous, was there. Gaius Winslow, having delivered his brood of children at the church door, made a special trip in his carryall to fetch the old lady. Captain Zebedee and Mrs. Mayo beamed from their pew. Dr. Parker and his wife smiled at them across the aisle. Didama Roger's new bonnet was a work of art and her neck threatened to twist itself off as she turned to see each one who came in.

Lavinia Pepper sailed to the front. She was dressed in a new black alpaca which rustled so very much like silk that nearsighted people might have been deceived by it. With her was a man, apparently suffering from strangulation because of the height and tightness of his collar. "It's Caleb Pratt, from Sandwich," whispered Didama. "Thankful Payne's relation, you know. Have you heard what folks are sayin'? I guess it's true, because — Look at Kyan! you'd think he was goin' to his own funeral.

There was a stir at the door. All heads swung in that direction—all but Mr. Pepper's, that is. The minister and Grace were coming up the aisle and behind them came Captain Nat Hammond and Keziah Coffin. Nat was smiling and self-possessed. Never before in his life had he entered the Regular meeting house as a worshiper, but he seemed to be bearing the ordeal bravely. It was Grace's first visit to the church, also, and she was plainly embarrassed. To be stared at by eighty-odd pairs of eyes, and to catch whispered comments from the starers' tongues, is likely to embarrass one.

Yet the comments were all friendly.

"I declare!" whispered Mrs. Prince, "I never see her look so pretty afore. I knew she was the best lookin' girl in this town, but I never realized she was such a beauty. Well, there's one thing sartin'—we've got the handsomest parson and parson's wife in this county, by about ten mile and four rows of apple trees. And there's the other bride that's goin' to be. I never see Keziah look so well neither."

The minister went up the stairs to the pulpit. He was still white and thin, but his eyes were bright and his voice clear. He gave the opening hymn and the service began.

They said it was the finest sermon ever preached in that church, and perhaps it was. When it was over before the benediction was pronounced, Ellery stepped out from behind the pulpit to the edge of the platform. He looked over the friendly faces upturned to his and, for an instant, it seemed that he could not trust himself to speak.

"My friends," he said, "I cannot let you go without a personal word. I owe you so much, all of you, that nothing I can say will convey to you my feeling of gratitude and love for this congregation and this church. You have stood by me all through. You trusted me and believed in me. I came to Trumet a stranger. I have found here the truest friends a man could hope to find—yes, and more than friends. If I live, and while I live, I shall hope to prove by the best effort that is in me my realization of the great debt I owe you and my desire to repay it, even though the payment must, of necessity, be so inadequate. God bless you all—and thank you."

There was much hand shaking and congratulation and the church emptied slowly. Among the last to leave were the Peppers and Mr. Pratt. Lavinia took the minister aside.

"Mr. Ellery," she simpered, "I've—that is, Caleb and me—will prob'ly want you to— That is, we want you to be the one——"

"Yes, Miss Pepper?"

"Oh, my sakes, you see— 'Bishy dear, come here a minute, won't you?"

Kyan approached—the picture of desolation.

"What do you want?" he asked gruffly.

"Heavens to Betsy! Don't look so sour. A body'd think you was goin' to be hung, to look at you. 'Bishy, you tell Mr. Ellery all about it, there's a dear. He'll tell you, Mr. Ellery; and remember we count on you. Neither me nor Caleb won't have nobody else."

She seized Mr. Pratt by the arm and led him hastily away. Kyan looked after them.

"Hung?" he muttered. "I wish, by godfreys mighty, I had the hangin' of some folks! I'd put a tighter collar on 'em than they've got now, I bet you!"

The minister's lips twitched. He knew what was coming. Hints of a surprising nature had been circulating about Trumet.

"What's the matter, Mr. Pepper?" he asked.

"Mattef? Matter enough! You know what she's goin' to do? She's goin' to marry that!"

The last word was emphasized by a furious gesticulation toward the back of the gentleman from Sandwich.

"Who? Mr. Pratt? Is your sister to marry him? Indeed! I congratulate them both—and you. I suppose Mr. Pratt will take his bride home to Sandwich, and you, being here alone, will be more free."

"Free?" Kyan repeated the word wrathfully. "Free! I'll be about as free as a settin' hen under a barrel, I will. Is a feller free when he's got two pickin' at him instead of one? I thought I was goin' to have a little peace and comfort; I thought that same as you, Mr. Ellery. I've had my suspicions as to her and him for some time. That day when I cal'lated I'd locked her up and come back to find she's gone buggy ridin', I thought 'twas queer. When she went to conference and left me alone I smelt a rat. When she took to letter writin' the smell got stronger; until the last few weeks I've been sartin of the game she was up to. When Laviny come to me and told me what she was goin' to do, was I obstinate? Did I stand on my rights as head of the family and tell her she couldn't do it? No, sir-ee, I didn't! I was resigned. 'Bless you, Laviny,' says I. 'When you goin' to go away?' And what do you s'pose she says to me? Why, that she wa'n't goin' away at all. That—that Pratt thing has sold out his shoe store up to Sandwich and is comin' here to live. Comin' to live at our house, mind you, with her and me! 'Twill be so nice for you, 'Bishy dear,' she says, 'to have a man in the house to keep you comp'ny and look out for you when I ain't round.' Godfreys mighty!"

This portion of Kyan's disclosure was surprising, if the announcement of his sister's engagement was not.

"Mr. Pratt is coming to Trumet?" the minister repeated. "What for? What is he going to do here.

"Keep shoe store, I s'pose likely. Laviny says there's a good openin' for one in this town. However, he and Laviny ain't got any mortgage on the marryin' business. Other folks can do it as well as them. What do you think of Hannah Poundberry?"

"What do I think of her? What do you mean?"

He turned away and moved sulkily toward his beckoning sister and her escort; but wheeled once more to add, in a mysterious whisper, "Don't you forget now, Mr. Ellery. Remember that question I put to you: 'What do you think of'—Yes, yes, Laviny, I hear you!—of you know who?'"

That evening, at the parsonage, Keziah was clearing the table and Captain Nat was helping her. A happy party of four had enjoyed the meal, John and Mrs. Coffin acting as hosts and Grace and the captain being the invited guests. Now the younger couple had gone over to the church, the bell of which was ringing for evening service.

"Hurry up, Keziah," urged Nat. "If you and me don't get decks cleared pretty soon we'll be late for meetin', and I'd hate to do that, considerin' I'm such a brand-new disciple, as you might say."

He walked to the back door of the kitchen, threw it open, and stood looking out.

"Keziah," he said, "come here a minute."

She came from the dining room and stood at his side. He put an arm about her.

"Look off there," he said, pointing with his free hand. "See that?"

The sun was just setting and all the west was gorgeous with crimson and purple and yellow. The bay was spangled with fire, the high sand bluffs along the shore looked like broken golden ingots. They were to be married in another month. It would be a double wedding, for Grace and the minister were to be married at the same time. Then Nat and his wife were to go to New York, where a new ship, just out of the builders' hands, was to be ready for him. She was a fine one, this successor to the Sea Mist. She had been building for more than a year and when Captain Hammond returned, safe and sound, and with their money in his possession, the owners decided at once that he should command the addition to their fleet. She was to sail for Liverpool and Keziah was to be a passenger.

"I can't hardly wait to get to sea," went on Nat. "Think of it! No more lonesome meals in the cabin, thinkin' about you and about home. No, sir! you and home'll be right aboard with me. Think of the fun we'll have in the foreign ports. I ain't rich enough to give you what you deserve, nowhere near; but I'll work hard and do my best, my girl—you see."

Keziah was looking out over the bay, her eyes brighter than the sunset. Now she turned to look up into his face.

"Rich!" she repeated, with a little catch in her voice. "Rich! there never was a woman in this world so rich as I am this minute. Or so happy, either."

THE END.

Didn't Like It.

She had great trouble with a Chinese cook, who could only be wakened by loud knocking and much calling at his door every morning. Finally she purchased an alarm clock, and setting it at the proper hour, presented it to Sam, the cook, who received the gift with a profound obeisance, and a little speech upon the generosity of Americans. The next morning, at the breakfast table, Sam appeared, and with solemn dignity returned the clock to his mistress, saying: "Me no likey; him wake me up!"—Sallie Bader, West Virginia.

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

Dun's Review says:

"The volume of business in nearly all branches of trade and industry continues very large, but it is mostly to meet immediate needs. Confidence is sustained by the prospect of big crops, but manufacturers and merchants still pursue a conservative policy, pending the termination of tariff uncertainty. Such recession in trade as exists is chiefly in the absence of new orders for future delivery.

"Mercantile and industrial conditions are strengthened by the absence of large stocks, and the financial situation is made more secure by the absence of excessive speculation.

"Commercial failures in the United States are 265, against 241 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 33, against 19 last year."

The Reporter is indebted to S. W. Gramley, of Millheim, for a sweetly scented boquet of Cape Jassemines, which was a portion of a large number of these very pretty flowers sent to him from near Houston, Texas, by a friend. The noted surgeon learned to know the child while she was in New York with her parents, and at one time when the mother was in a hospital, little Mary became very ill, he took charge of her, secured nurses and paid all expenses, mentioning the incident casually for the first time while in Centre Hall. The little girl is very fond of the surgeon and accompanied him on many trips through the city. It was a happy meeting and a sad parting of the two on Saturday afternoon.

50th Marriage Anniversary.

On May 28, the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Corl, at the old homestead west of State College was celebrated in an appropriate manner. This is one of the old families of Centre county and are widely known. Mr. Corl is a son of Benjamin Corl, who moved from Chester county, to Union county, and from there to Woodward in 1823. In 1843 Benjamin Corl moved from Woodward to a farm west of State College and resided there to the end of his days. There were eight children in this family, five boys and three girls, of which Peter Corl is the youngest.

Peter Corl, in whose honor the 50th wedding anniversary was held, was only five years of age when his father moved to this farm. In 1863 he was married to Miss Anna Barbara Reish, of Mifflinburg, by Rev. W. H. Groh. He moved home and after a period of seven years his father died. He then purchased the homestead and continued to farm up to the year 1908. After this he retired and built himself a beautiful home at State College where he now lives.

In the Corl family there are twelve children, ten of whom are living and all reside in Ferguson township and are engaged in farming. They are as follows: William K., Clayton, Samuel U., Mrs. D. H. Krebs, P. Milford, D. Ollis, occupying the old homestead, Mrs. Chas Strouse, Alvin K., J. Madison, and Miss Cora Corl, at home.

Only the immediate family and a few others—sixty in all—were present. There were thirty-five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren present. After the repast, Rev. S. C. Stover, the pastor, made an appropriate address and in the name of the family presented to each of the parents ten dollars in gold so emblematic of the pure and noble life which these parents have led.

The Best Newspaper.

It is seldom that there comes to us a paper we can praise as wholesome and clean in every respect, but "The Philadelphia Sunday Record" certainly deserves its title as "the greatest home newspaper of all."

It has feature pages for every member of the family. We were surprised at the variety and scope of its articles. The best artists and authors each week contribute some of the work that has made them famous.

DEATHS

John M. Hinkson, an aged and highly respected citizen of Lock Haven, died in the hospital in that city on Friday morning, of an affection of the kidneys, after an illness of several months, although he was able to be around until two weeks ago.

Mr. Hinkson was born in Haines township, this county, September 23, 1834, and he was therefore in his 79th year. He went to Lock Haven forty-five years ago, and followed the occupation of a millwright until about three years ago, when advancing age compelled him to retire. He was the oldest Odd Fellow in that city, having united with the order more than fifty years ago.

Deceased is survived by two sons, Elmer E. and Sidney, one sister, Miss Mary, of Mackeyville, and one brother, Henry, of Lincoln county, Kansas.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of deceased's son, E. E Hinkson, by Rev. E. Crumbling, after which the remains were taken to Beech Creek for burial.

Mrs. Cleveland Brungart, of Philadelphia, died at a hospital in that city on Saturday morning. The remains were shipped to Coburn, and from there conveyed to the home of the deceased's father, D. B. Weaver, from which place the funeral was held Wednesday morning, interment being made at Rebersburg, the officiating minister being Rev. Stauffer.

Mrs. Linnie Brungart is survived by her husband, and a babe nine weeks old, also her father named above and four brothers and one sister, namely: C. D. Weaver, Wolfs Store; A. P. Weaver, West Brownsville: C. T. Weaver, Wolfs Store; O. W. Weaver, Dekalb, Illinois; and Mrs. Grace Meyer, Big Rock, Illinois. She was aged thirty-two years, and had lived in Philadelphia for about four years.

James H. McClintick died at his home in Lock Haven on Friday morning from the effects of a stroke of paralysis. He was aged fifty-four years.

Mr. McClintick was a son of the late John McClintic, of Potter township, and at his old home near Centre Hill he will be better recalled as "Hutch" McClintick. He was employed in the paper mill at Lock Haven. He is survived by a wife, two sons and three daughters; also these brothers: Charles, Hartleton; Mortimer, Lock Haven; John Alexander, Yeagertown; and these sisters: Mrs Thomas Wherry, Yeagertown; Mrs. Thomas Watson, Pittsburg; and Anna, also married, in Reading.

The deceased is a cousin of Samuel J. McClintick, of near Potters Mills.

James M. Mowery died in Bellefonte at the home of Anthony Noll, Thursday evening of last week. He had been at the hospital to be treated for tuberculosis, but it was found that he could not be helped, as the disease had too firm a hold on him. He was aged fifty-seven years. Interment was made at Centre Hall, the funeral having been held from the home of a son, west of town, on Monday forenoon.

He is survived by a wife, whose maiden name was Carter, a son and daughter, namely, J. W. Mowery, from whose home he was buried, and Mrs. Charles Hall, of Charleroi. Jerry and Robert Smith, of Centre Hall, are half-brothers, and Miss Lizzie Kruise, of Patton, is a half-sister of the deceased.

John Charles Hayes died in a Pittsburg hospital, aged forty-eight years. He was well known in Centre county. Dr. R. G. H. Hayes, of Bellefonte, is a brother, and Mrs. Orwig, of Harrisburg, and Mrs. Reish, of Mifflinburg, are sisters of the deceased. Interment was made at Mifflinburg.

Rev. Samuel W. Seibert, a prominent minister in the United Evangelical church, died in Newport. Interment was made at Elysburg. Dr. J. L. Seibert, of Bellefonte, is a son of the deceased.

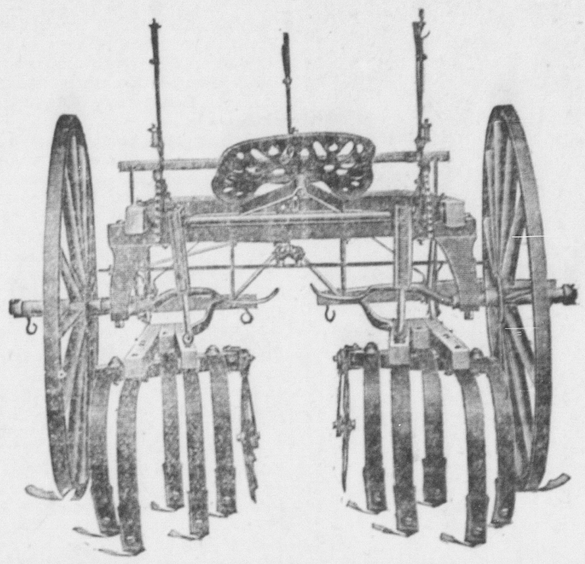
Your farm work will be easier if you use good implements

Make your work on the farm easier by using machinery that works well under all conditions, thus eliminating all the worry which comes from using inferior implements.

We handle only the best line of machinery it is possible to buy. Nothing is purchased by us until we are satisfied it will meet the exacting demands of the farmer, who is ever on the lookout for any implement which will save time and labor, better prepare the soil, and better harvest the crop.



The most needed farm implement right now--

Albright Riding Cultivator

This Spring Tooth Riding Cultivator is beyond a doubt the most durable, convenient and efficient Riding Cultivator made. The design of the machine employs all the latest improvements. It has improved pivoted extension spindles which give the easiest operation possible, open tongue, seperate hoisting levers to raise and lower the gangs which can also be set to use but one lever, spring conection for applying pressure on the gangs, lever for adjusting the space between the gangs, lever to guide the machine while the operator walks, etc.

These Cultivators are well painted, striped and varnished and will please the most critial buyer.

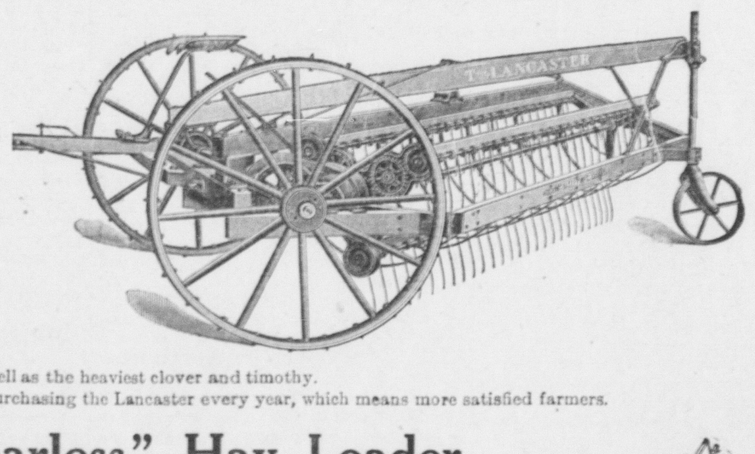
IT'S NOT TOO EARLY TO PREPARE FOR THE HAYING SEASON

The "Lancaster" Side-Delivery Hay Rake

is a true friend of the farmer with the heavy hay crop.

The "Lancaster" gathers up the hay in a continuous, loose and fluffy windrow, which allows the wind to pass through freely.

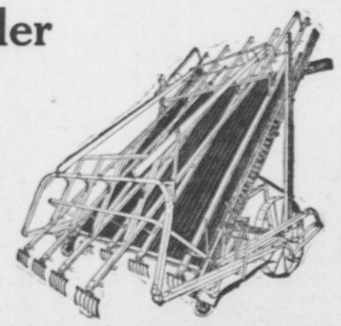
Note its simple construction, strength is one of its chief qualities All gears are protected and long timothy is delivered clean instead of becoming wrapped in the gearing as is the case with other machines. It rakes the shortest blue grass as well as the heaviest clover and timothy.



More farmers are purchasing the Lancaster every year, which means more satisfied farmers.

The "Gearless" Hay Loader

Cleans up the hay field in short order



Its name describes it—it is gearless, and has no gears to break, clog up, chains and sprockets to break, run off and cause no end of trouble. The long easy stroke delivers the hay whether heavy or light, on the wagon in better shape without chewing it up, without tearing off the lever or without threshing out the seed as other loaders do.

The GEARLESS Hay Loader is not the cheapest hay loader you can buy but it is the best one. They are worth more than is asked for them.

The GEARLESS does its own loading. It pushes the hay well up onto the wagon; it does not need a watchman to keep it from clogging. The Gearless is sold on its merits, because it never fails to perform the work it is sold to do. The Gearless will pick up and load windrows and haycock which other machines cannot handle.

JOHNSTON MOWER. Make sure of a perfect cutting of grass this summer by using a Johnston Mower on your hay crop. We are well acquainted with all makes of mowers and think the Johnston the best investment. Ask us more about it.

We have described only a few machines here, but we have on hand many more. Our business is to serve the farmer, and serve him well. If you are interested, see us.

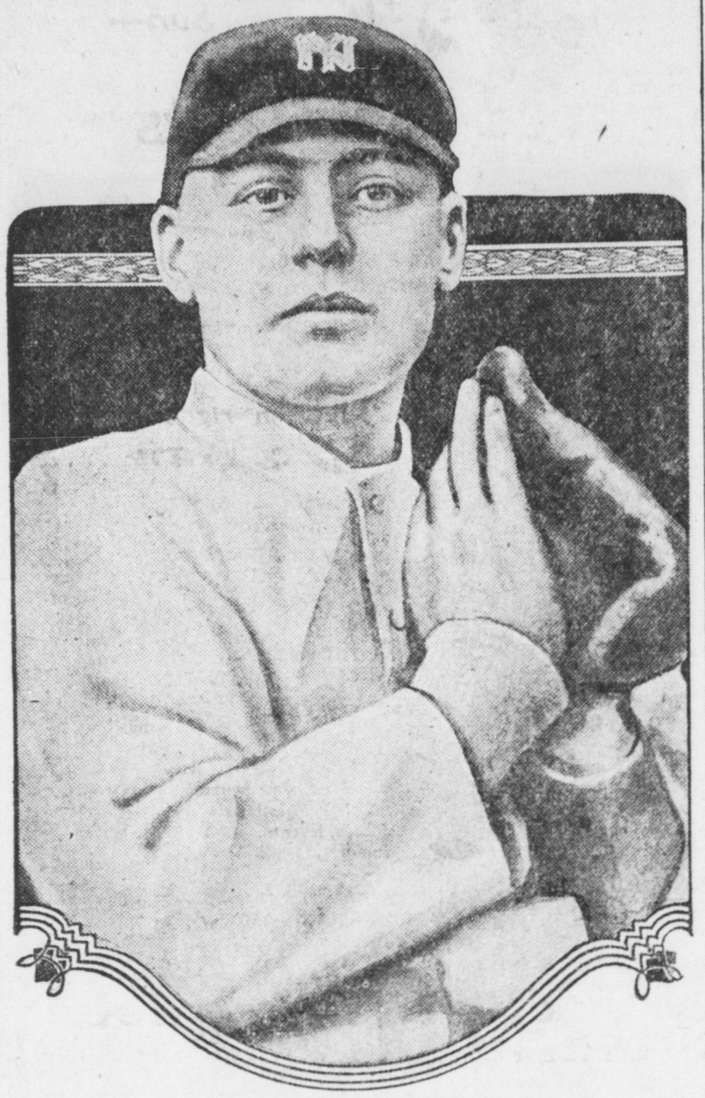
NEW YORK HIGHLANDERS UNEARTH PHENOM



Ray Keating, Spit Ball Artist.

Frank L. Chance sincerely believes that Ray Keating, the boy whom the Yanks secured from Lawrence, Mass., will be as good as Ed Walsh within a few years.

"A great pitcher, that boy," commented Chance as he gazed at the youngster.

"He uses the spit ball almost exclusively, but has he the physique for a spit-ball pitcher?" was suggested.

"I'll agree with you that he isn't as tall as Walsh, but he weighs 185 stripped, which isn't being a light man by a good many pounds, and take a look at those shoulders. This boy is only twenty years old. He has a few years to grow."

Keating's success is with the spit ball. He has a good fast ball, but relies on the salivated delivery.

"Walsh uses the spitter. That's all he has," went on Chance, "that and a fast one, but the spitter nearly all the time."

"How do American league pitchers look to you?"

"Some of those I have seen look pretty fair, to say the least. There is Walter Johnson—"

"Would you call him better than Mathewson?"

"No, I would not say that Johnson is a better pitcher than Mathewson. You have to give Matty a lot of credit. He is a wonderful pitcher. He has speed, curves, a good slow ball and a great mind. Johnson has more speed than Matty, but lacks several of the other things.

"I do not believe that Johnson will last as long as Mathewson. A man cannot use as much speed as he does for many seasons. He is developing a curve ball that will be of great advantage to him. He showed a good curve when he pitched against us. He has no slow ball to speak of, but with that curve and speed he will be better equipped than in previous years. As he grows older he will pitch more with his brain than his arm and last longer than if he depended on that speed and his curve.

"In picking pitchers I think I would take Mordecai Brown if I had one pitcher to choose of all those in the major leagues. Brown had everything a pitcher needed—a great curve, good speed, slow ball and control. He was a wise pitcher, and I do not think I ever saw a better fielding pitcher. Besides that, Brown was always ready to work for you. He would go in any day at any stage of the game and always pitch good ball.

"I did not see a left-hander this spring, though, who, if he always pitches the kind of ball he pitched against us, is the greatest southpaw in the country. That's Plank of Philadelphia."

"Do you think him superior to Rucker and Marquard?"

"I think him superior to anyone I ever saw.'

And Chance should know. He batted against the pick of the National league hurlers for several years, and managers were always sure that their star boxmen were at their best when the Cubs came to town. He had to face Walsh at the end of several seasons in the Chicago city series, and knows him well, and this spring he bumped against Johnson and Plank. If any man in the major leagues is in a position to know the relative value of the pitchers in high baseball society, Chance is that man.

HANDICAP TO PLAYERS

Stars Who Suffered Because of Size of Their Digits.

Cy Seymour Found Great Difficulty In Controlling Ball Because His Hands Were So Small—Campbell Another Victim.

It was the small size of his hands which kept Cy Seymour from being a great pitcher. When he first joined the New York Giants, many years ago, he came as a twirler, but he found the greatest difficulty in securing control of the ball, because his hands are so small that he could not get his fingers all the way around the sphere. Cy was finally forced to give up pitching entirely and go to the outfield, where his hitting, rather than his fielding, kept him in the game for a long period of years.

Vincent Campbell, the fast center fielder of the Bostons, last season, has the same handicap as Seymour in regard to the size of his hands. Campbell's mitts are far below the average in length and diameter, and the muffed flies which he is guilty of are the result of this physical handicap, to a great extent. He is also not so good a thrower as he would be if his hands were a bit more bulky. Campbell, however, played better ball last season than ever before.

Vincent is a speed marvel, no one excelling him in getting down to first base. But he has two weak points in offensive work. He is a very poor waiter, and so does not get on nearly so often as he would if he was able to force the pitcher to pitch to him.

His great speed makes him a hard man to stop in the bases, but he is not on there so much as he would be if he could develop the habit of waiting to better advantage. Campbell hits 15 points higher than Bob Bescher, but the extra bases on balls secured by the Redleg were more valuable than the extra hits made by the Boston gardener.

Owing to his inability to wait, Campbell went to bat more times officially than any other player in the National league last year. He was charged with 624 times at bat, and no other player reached the 600 mark, though 16 of them played in as many or more games than he did. This is a serious weakness in a lead-off man, who should be on base more often by the pass route. Campbell, in spite of his great speed, is not a very clever base runner. While Bescher was stealing 67 bases last year Vincent was copping just 19, both men playing in exactly the same number of games.

JOHNSON NOW HOLDS RECORD

Washington Speed King Ends Sensational Run When St. Louis Scored Run Off His Delivery.

Walter Johnson, Washington's star pitcher, is the official holder of the major league record for pitching consecutive scoreless innings, winding up his great run at St. Louis recently, when he added three and one-third innings to his work. The Browns scored on him in the fourth inning. Johnson now holds the record at 56 innings.

Johnson's teammates claim this is a major league record for shutouts, and so far as known it is. Record books crediting Doc White of the White Sox with 56 innings and Jack Coombs of the Athletics with 53 innings have been proved incorrect, making authentic information concerning previous performances of this kind difficult to obtain. Johnson's run of 56 runless innings has been verified and found correct. All other claims are more or less open to doubt.

BRIDES HIDE WEALTH

ROMANTIC HAPPENINGS THAT ARE SOMEWHAT UNUSUAL.

Cases Have Been Known, However, and the Marriages Have Been Happy—Sad Case Is Reported From Milwaukee.

Romance and reality generally keep a respectable distance apart when it comes to millions and marriage. Tennyson has his poem of the lord who wooed the girl as a poor man and surprised her when he took her home to share his noble name and mighty domain. But this was the man with the money seeking the woman who had none and keeeping his wealth a secret.

Then there was your old friend Claude Melnotte, who courted and won the celebrated Lady of Lyons, pretending that he was a regular Croesus instead of a gardener's son. He tried to keep romance and reality apart, but eventually the ax dropped on the scheme.

The New York case of Miss Thryza Benson and Montague Flagg the other day, however, reverses the usual plot of the novelist. Mr. Flagg met Miss Benson at an innocent house party. They were mutually attracted immediately.

So Flagg paid ardent court. He wrote the young lady and she wrote him, he all the while never suspecting she was an heiress to "seven figures of fortune." Every once in a while something would happen that would all but reveal the secret, but Miss Benson would give the "hush" sign and the subject would be turned. At last Flagg proposed, was accepted, and the couple were married; on the wedding day the bridegroom learned "officially" that his wife was the granddaughter of Robert Hoe and destined to inherit riches it would take quite a little while to count.

A wealthy Milwaukee widow a few years ago advertised in a matrimonial paper that she would make a good wife for the right kind of a man. She picked out the best photographed man that answered, and thought she'd try this novel plan to smoke out the possible fortune hunter. When they met she said:

"I have money and at the same time I haven't. It'll all depend. Don't ask me any more questions. We'll try it for six months."

They were married. The bridegroom proved the most silent kind of a man. The former widow could hardly get a word out of him. But he was a determined, steady working, sober chap and she fell in love with him. At the end of six months she said to him: "It's all right. You're my man. I've plenty of money."

But the six months' husband spoke more volubly than she had ever known him to before. Said he:

"Nothin' doin'—nothin' doin'. Was just goin' to tell you nothin' doin'. I've got money myself. I thought I'd try you out the same way. The splice don't suit. Me for Nevada. Nothin' doin'."

Burk Was Accommodating.

She was well dressed, and Annis Burk, the mayor's private secretary, put on his very best smile when the woman entered Mayor Shank's office.

"Where is the honorable mayor of our city?" inquired the woman.

"I am very sorry," replied Burk, "but the mayor is out of his office today, on a private business matter."

"Possibly you can attend to the little matter of business I wanted to see the mayor about."

"I shall be glad to do so, if I can," replied Burk.

"Well," continued the woman, opening an elaborate hand bag. "I have here a very fine brand of toilet soap. It is only ten cents a cake, and I am sure if the mayor were here he would be glad to buy it."

Burk bought it.—Indianapolis News.

Babies' Face Screens.

Italian colonies set fashions of their own in taking care of babies. A wanderer in one of those populous districts saw a bunch of small wire screens resembling basball masks dangling in a store window.

"What are those things for?" was the query.

"Screens to protect the babies' faces at Italians' Sunday outings," said the shopkeeper. "On their gala occasions every carriage load of celebrants pelts every other carriage load with candy pelliets as big as a pigeon egg and hard as a rock. If they hit the babies in the face they are likely to put an eye out. Such accidents have happened. Lately mothers have become more careful and they tie a screen over the baby's face until the candy has all been thrown away."

Women as "White Wings."

The director of public works, Mr. Cooke, is going to appoint women inspectors of street cleaning, not, as he said, to encourage the equal suffrage movement, but for the sake of efficiency in ferreting out dirt.

Cooke believes women inspectors will be more conscientious than men. For these tenets he has bad practical demonstrations during his term of office by the employment there of a young woman who has acted in the capacity of private inspector for the director. She is not on the city payroll, and her salary has come from private sources. Her field covers all manner of public contracting work.—Philadelphia Dispatch to the New York Tribune.

A Nervous Wreck.

"How did you happen to contract St. Vitus' dance, my good man?"

"Those Balkans' names did it. I was a compositor on a local paper when the war broke out."

The Right Dope.

"Oh, George!" wailed Mrs. De Fluff, "Fido has just been run over by a taxi! What on earth shall I do?"

"Humph!" replied her unsympathetic hubby, "you'd better send for a taxi-dermist."

Poor Fellow.

The pretty storekeeper was unpacking and assorting some new goods when her best young man entered. She stopped behind the counter a moment and arose with flushed face.

"I'm glad to see you're stocking up," he said.

There's an unaccountable coldness between them now.

It Is Queer.

"It's funny how people will apply for jobs for which they have no fitness."

"How now?"

"I advertised for an experienced drug clerk, and among others who wanted to try the job were a miner, a circus performer and a steamboat pilot."

Changes of Climate.

A scientist who recently investigated the causes of secular variations in temperature at the earth's surface thinks that they are more probably due to changes in the amount of carbonic acid in the atmosphere than to variations in the heat of the sun. If the amount of carbonic acid that the air now contains was diminished a little more than half, the mean temperature all over the earth would, it is stated, drop about eight degrees, which would be sufficient to bring on another glacial period. On the other hand, an increase of carbonic acid to between two and three times its present amount would raise the mean temperature 15 degrees and renew the hot times of the Eocene epoch.

Cannon of Solid Rock.

When the island of Malta was under the rule of the Knights of St. John they defended their fortifications with cannon bored in the living rock. Each one of these strange weapons contained an entire barrel of powder, and as it was not possible to vary the aim of these cannon 50 were made ready, facing various directions from which the enemy might approach.

When the fame of these arms of defense became known to the world the idea was taken up of transporting rocks to summits to serve the same purpose, but it was soon recognized to be impracticable, and the cannon of Malta, bored in solid rock, have passed into history as the sole weapons of the kind ever known.—Harper's Weekly.

MEMORY IMPROVED.
Since Leaving Off Coffee.

Many persons suffer from poor memory who never suspect coffee has anything to do with it.

The drug—caffeine—in coffee, acts injuriously on the nerves and heart, causing imperfect circulation, too much blood in the brain at one time, too little in another part. This often causes a dullness which makes a good memory nearly impossible.

"I am nearly seventy years old and did not know that coffee was the cause of the stomach and heart trouble I suffered from for many years, until about four years ago," writes a Kansas woman.

"A kind neighbor induced me to quit coffee and try Postum. I had been suffering severely and was greatly reduced in flesh. After using Postum a little while I found myself improving. My heart beats became regular and now I seldom ever notice any symptoms of my old stomach trouble at all. My nerves are steady and my memory decidedly better than while I was using coffee.

"I like the taste of Postum fully as well as coffee."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

Foolish Self-Condemnation.

No comfort for the living or the dead can be won from vain self-condemnation. No consolation can be gained while you nurse the imagining that a certain trouble might have been avoided. What we have to do is to try to escape from other troubles that are truly avoidable—troubles of a useless remorse, a present neglect, a listless apathy that will not reach forth for the good things still to be gathered.—Exchange.

The Reason.

"There is a great deal of snap and go about Jimson's business methods."

"How so?"

"He makes rat traps."

HOW THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

Would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for All Rest of Medicine in the World.

Utica, Ohio.—"I suffered everything from a female weakness after baby came. I had numb spells and was dizzy, had black spots before my eyes, my back ached and I was so weak I could hardly stand up. My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I had displacement. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am stout, well and healthy. I can do all my own work and can walk to town and back and not get tired. I would not give your Vegetable Compound for all the rest of the medicines in the world. I tried doctor's medicines and they did me no good."—Mrs. MARY EARLEWINE, R. F. D. No. 3, Utica, Ohio.

Another Case.

Nebo, Ill.—"I was bothered for ten years with female troubles and the doctors did not help me. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and every month I had to spend a few days in bed. I read so many letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound curing female troubles that I got a bottle of it. It did me more good than anything else I ever took and now it has cured me. I feel better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be living to-day but for that."—Mrs. HETTIE GREENSTREET, Nebo, Illinois.

INSIST ON PURE SEED

Farmer May Determine Whether Grain Contains Impurities.

Great Care Should Be Exercised to Prevent Introduction of Noxious Weeds Upon Land Difficult of Eradication.

(By O. I. TILLMAN.)

By studying carefully the characteristics—size, shape and color—of grain and weed seeds, the farmer will be enabled to determine whether or not his grain contains impurities. Great care should be taken to prevent the introduction of noxious weeds upon land, as they are difficult to eradicate Care With Turkeys.

Always be sure that every part of any inclosure where the turkey hen and poults are kept is well drained. sometimes the hen will sit down at night in a low place, and a heavy rain will fill the depression with water and chill or drown the poults.

Kale in the Garden.

Do not forget in planting your garden to provide for a patch of kale. There are different varieties, each of which is good.

MANY WAYS OF SOWING OATS

Question Arises as to Advisability of Making Any Preparation of the Soil.

Oats has been such an uncertain crop in many of the western states, often the best crop being from a field that was sown broadcast and scratched in any old way, that a question has been raised among farmers as to the advisability of making any preparation of the soil other than getting the seed scattered and enough soil worked up to cover them.

In some sections this lack of the proper preparation is the rule rather than the exception. A great many sow the seed among corn stalks and disc or cover with the cultivator, harrowing afterward.

In some cases this plan has produced good crops, but from my observation and experience the best crops of oats are grown on land that has been well broken either in the fall or the early spring and the oats drilled in at the rate of two bushels to the acre.

When seed are put in in this way there is no trusting to a rain to finish covering them and they will begin to germinate at once. The seed are all put in the ground to the same depth, resulting in an even stand.

When the seed are sown on top and cultivated or disced in some will be covered deep and in some cases shallow or not at all. The birds will get some of them or in a few weeks of dry weather they will not sprout at once.

If a hard rain comes while covering and before the harrow has been run over the ground it can never be smoothed so that a binder can be run over it with comfort to the driver.

GIANT THUYA GAINING FAVOR

Found Easier to Grow and Transplant Than Any Other Conifer—Likes Any Soil.

(By W. R. GILBERT.)

The Giant Thuya is rapidly making its way in the good opinions of those interested in conifers. It is found easier to raise and easier to transplant than any other conifer. It will grow in almost any soil, even in damp, cold bottoms and on poor dry oolite, and seems equally indifferent to wind, damp and spring frosts. There is no reason why this tree should not be sold in nurseries at the price of spruce, unless it is the absence of a regular demand, for it can be got to the proper size for planting in two years' less time. The tree seeds itself in sandy soil.

In a visit to England a few years ago, I saw a plantation of Thuya and larch planted in poor clay over chalk, and the Thuya had completely outstepped the larch. Another instance, in a twenty-four-year-old plantation of Thuya, Douglas fir and larch, on farily good soil the Thuya had grown two feet per annum, and pretty well held its own with the Douglas, though on a steep hill about 500 feet in altitude it was being suppressed. Here then is a rival to the Douglas in rapid growth, and the lumber is acclaimed as superior to that of the best larch, and preferable to larch for planking and fencing, so, apparently decided on rivaling the Douglas in qaulity. Further the adaptability of the tree to soils and its power of resisting cold and storms are greater than those of the Douglas.

A Beautiful Specimen.

For a Succession.

Do not forget and plant the whole garden when you start. Just a small amount of each vegetable, and repeat the planting from three to six weeks later. Also remember that you should endeavor to plant the vegetables in a different place from where they were planted last year.

If beans were on one side of the garden last year, plant them on the opposite side or near the middle this year. Rotation is just as necessary in the garden for the best results to be obtained as in the regular field.

Climbing American Beauty.

The climbing American beauty has been produced by a method of cross fertilization which has retained the charming qualities of the American beauty rose and yet, by way of contrast, it is hardy and will stand heat drought almost as well as any rose.

Nourishment for Sow.

The sow with a litter of pigs tugging at her needs the most nourishing feed—not necessarily grain, but a good, rich slop of shorts or middlings.

Hour for Milking.

Cows should be milked as much as possible morning and evening at the same hour.

MANY PERSONS COLOR BLIND

Tests Used by Railroads Show That Almost Everybody Is Slightly Color Blind.

The various tests for color blindness have come into practical use in the examination of railroad engineers and the like, where the ability to distinguish colors is necessary, so that these tests are no longer peculiar to the laboratory. But it is not generally known outside the laboratory that everybody is partially color blind—that is, in certain parts of the field of vision. The most normal individual can see all the colors only when he looks directly at them. If looked at from an angle of about fifteen degrees red and green can no longer be seen, but in their places will appear shades of yellow or blue. This region of the eyes is known as the yellow-blue zone. If the color be moved still farther to the side the yellow and blue will disappear and only gray can be seen. This region is known as the zone of complete color blindness. An interesting theory in regard to these zones is that every normal eye represents three stages of evolution. The zone of complete color blindness is the lowest stage, and appears in such animals as the frog, whose vision is known as shadow vision. The blue-yellow zone is one step higher in the scale, although not clearly marked off in the animal kingdom. And the appearance of the red-green zone marks the highest stage of evolution. Cases of color blindness are, according to this theory, a lack of development beyond the early stage of individual life.—Strand Magazine.

THE BEST TREATMENT FOR ITCHING SCALPS, DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR

To allay itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and economical. On retiring, comb the hair out straight all around, then begin at the side and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura Ointment into the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. Anoint additional partings about half an inch apart until the whole scalp has been treated, the purpose being to get the Cuticura Ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. It is well to place a light covering over the hair to protect the pillow from possible stain. The next morning, shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Shampoos alone may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Effort Wasted.

"What makes me really mad," said the woman, "is to spend minutes, maybe hours, trying to get hold of a white hair that shows up on my head like a dazzling light, yet which is tantalizingly elusive when I try to catch it, and then when I do finally separate it from the brown hair and give it a vigorous pull, to find that I have snatched out a good brown hair and left the white one still shining!"

Oh, That Was It.

BOOSTER FOR ROSSMAN.

A Centre County School Man Praised for Good Work Done.

In the industrial edition of the Free Press published at Stuttgart, Kansas, Prof. John G. Rossman, son of merchant H. F. and Mrs. Rossman, of Spring Mills, is mentioned thus:

No field of usefulness is wider and more important than that of the educator, and to be at the head of the school system of a city like Stuttgart is to wield incalculable influence. If the man in whose hands this great trust is placed is wise, broad-minded, and of advanced ideas, he is the benefactor of hundreds of the younger generation, and his ideas may find fruition in many future careers. Stuttgart is to be congratulated upon the character and attainments of the gentleman who is now captain of her public schools, and whose ability is known far beyond the limits of our city and county. Prof. John G. Rossman was born in Pennsylvania, at the small town of Spring Mills and received his first schooling at the public schools of the town, later taking up his studies in a private school for a time before entering the Franklin & Marshall College, of Lancaster, Pa, where after four years he was graduated from a full classical course, with an A. B. degree, some time later returning to the same institution for a year's post-graduate course and receiving his A. M. degree.

Professor Rossman has been engaged in teaching most successfully for several years. In 1908 he came to Arkansas, first locating at Stuttgart, and was an instructor in the Stuttgart Training School during his first year. In 1909 he went to Kentucky, remaining there about a year and returning here he again became connected with the Training School another year before he was selected as Superintendent of the public schools, in which position he is now filling his second year with increasing satisfaction to our people, and in a manner reflecting much credit upon himself, so much so that he is already employed for the third year with the schools of our city. At the close of the present term, or about June 1st, Prof. Rossman will leave for Columbia University, of New York City, where he will take a full course in School Supervision, and this is only another evidence that he is an educator who believes in always keeping strictly abreast of the times and getting everything that will be of benefit to him and his charges in the work.

It is but just to say that Prof. Rossman is a man of marked ability and enterprise, whose progressive spirits are bringing about the rapid development of the best that can be gotten out of our schools. Holding advanced ideas concerning education and methods of teaching, during his incumbency as Superintendent of our schools, he has introduced many methods which are proving the schools what they ever should be—a preparation for the responsible duties which devolve upon every individual after reaching maturity. His course has received the approval of the most progressive citizens of Stuttgart, and he has enlisted the co-operation of his teachers to such an extent that great harmony prevails and the concerted action is attended with most excellent results. Stuttgart indeed feels fortunate in being able to keep Prof. Rossman with us.

It is remarkable how many small boys and young men under twenty-one are existing without the cigarette when just a short time ago they just couldn't quit the habit. The tip Judge Orvis gave the constables on the cigarette question has had a wholesome influence. If constables keep their eyes open, the cigarette habit among boys will soon be a thing of the past.

An Old Time Playful Prisoner.

Over a century ago there occurred in London what the Annual Register called "a most unparalleled atrocity." It was only the theft of a pocket handkerchief from a pocket, but the circumstances of the deed explain the vehemence of this denunciation. Four men were on their trial for assaulting a man in his house at Ponder's End, putting him in fear and stealing from him, and one of them relieved the tedium of the trial, which lasted eight hours, by picking the pocket of one of the turnkeys as he stood in the dock. An official had the presence of mind to order the restoration of the handkerchief, and the prisoner had enough presence of mind to obey "with the most careless indifference," but the court, we read, "were horror struck." Justice, however, pulled itself together sufficiently to sentence all four men to death.

The Changing Death Rate.

The last generation has progressed remarkably in saving the babies, but has let the middle aged people die. Below the age of ten the death rate has been diminishing. Above the age of forty the death rate has been increasing, at least in America. No increase is reported from Europe.

Intemperance in eating, drinking and working, especially working, is the most probable explanation of this peculiar and unfortunate mortality.

The nation has made great advances in community hygiene. It is time the people begun to advance a little in personal hygiene.—Chicago Journal.

Looked Like It.

The small but observant son of a New York traveling salesman noticed when his father came home that he had had a front tooth filled with gold while he was away.

"Pop," said the boy, "you've got your tooth buttoned on with a collar button, haven't you?"—New York Sun.

Made Them Laugh.

"My friends," said a politician the other day, with a burst of ingenuous eloquence, "I will be honest"—

The terrific outburst of applause which followed this remark entirely upset the point which the orator was about to introduce.—London Telegraph.

The Trouble.

Discontented Twin—Pretty rotten luck on me! I shouldn't so much mind having a face like mine if it wasn't so beastly like yours.—London Punch.

Empty men are the trumpets of their own deeds.—Massinger.

Not Him.

"Has my husband been in here?" inquired a woman of the bartender. "He's a tall, red faced man, no overcoat, soft hat."

"A man answering that description got a bottle of whisky here about ten minutes ago."

"How big a bottle?"

"Half a pint, ma'am."

"Some other man," said the woman.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

His Limit.

"And before we were married you said you would be willing to die for me."

"I know it."

"And yet you refuse to beat the rugs."

"Sure! Dying is my limit."—Houston Post.

Spoiled.

"His popularity is spoiling him."

"What's the matter now?"

"He's got so that he can't enjoy a banquet unless he's at the speakers' table."—Detroit Free Press.

Always take the short cut, and that is the rational one. Therefore say and do everything according to the soundest reason.—Marcus Aurelius.

The one thing that you want from your orchard is fine, sound, unspotted fruit of good color and free from worms.

BOWKER'S PYROX

IS THE ONE SPRAY THAT INSURES YOUR FRUIT CROP

It is a smooth creamy paste, mixes easily in cold water, and sticks like paint to the foliage and "won't wash off." It kills all leaf-eating insects, destroys fungous growths, scab, blight, rot etc. It is also the best spray for potatoes—kills bugs and prevents blight. By warding off the blight it gives the crop two or three weeks longer to grow at a time when every day's growth means a larger potato.
